August At The Library

Following an active and well-attended Summer Reading Program, Wednesday morning story-time for children resumes on August 9, with 10:00 a.m. sessions designed for pre-school ages and 11:00 a.m. for kindergarten and older.

Children and adults interested in the upcoming October 14, 2023 Annual Solar Eclipse and the April 8, 2024 Total Solar Eclipse, will want to attend a special program, "Here Comes the Sun, and Two Eclipses." On Saturday, August 5 at 10:00 a.m., Lago Vista resident, Tom Campbell, a retired science teacher and amateur astronomer who does public outreach with the Austin Astronomical Society, will bring a telescope to the Library to talk about the sun and how to view it safely, and to provide information on eclipses and orbit of the moon in respect to the earth.

Mark your calendars for Thursday, August 24, from 6-8 p.m. when authors, Russ Hall and W.C. Jameson will return to talk about their newly published books and to share their knowledge and experience in writing and publishing. Pizza will be served, so we ask that you reserve a seat for the program.

For more information about these events and other programs and services, visit the Library website, www.lagovista.lib.tx.us, and/or find us on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Pinterest.
